639
In the Limelight: April 2022
Karl A. Nath

Editorials

642
Language, Respect, and the Medical Profession
Colin P. West, Julia A. Files, Patricia Friedrich, and Charanjit S. Rihal

645
Now Is the Time to Implement Physical Activity Counseling in Clinical Practice—A New Universal Tool
Leonard A. Kaminsky, Amanda R. Bonikowske, and Charles German

648
Proton Pump Inhibitors, Dual Antiplatelet Therapy, and the Risk of Gastrointestinal Bleeding
Wojciech Marlicz, Igor Loniewski, and George Koulaouzidis

Medical Image

652
Half-and-Half Toenails
Koichiro Yamamoto and Fumio Otsuka

Commentary

653
Predicting Avoidable Health Care Utilization: Practical Considerations for Artificial Intelligence/Machine Learning Models in Population Health
Steven Lin, Shreya Shah, Amelia Sattler, and Margaret Smith

Original Articles

658
Physician Identification Badges: A Multispecialty Quality Improvement Study to Address Professional Misidentification and Bias
Emily M. Olson, Virginia A. Dines, Samantha M. Ryan, Andrew J. Halvorsen, Timothy R. Long, Daniel L. Price, R. Houston Thompson, Megha M. Tollefson, Jamie J. Van Gompel, and Amy S. Oxentenko

Residents reported decreased role misidentification after use of a role identification badge, most prominently improved among women.
Association Between Personal Activity Intelligence and Mortality: Population-Based China Kadoorie Biobank Study
Among relatively healthy Chinese adults, the personal activity intelligence metric was inversely associated with cardiovascular disease and all-cause mortality.

Proton Pump Inhibitors and In-Hospital Gastrointestinal Bleeding in Patients With Acute Coronary Syndrome Receiving Dual Antiplatelet Therapy
Mengge Zhou, Jie Zhang, Jing Liu, Sidney C. Smith Jr., Changsheng Ma, Junbo Ge, Yong Huo, Gregg C. Fonarow, Jun Liu, Yongchen Hao, Feng Gao, Yamei Sun, Louise Morgan, Na Yang, Guoiliang Hu, Yuhong Zeng, Yaling Han, and Dong Zhao; on behalf of the CCC-ACS Investigators
An increased risk of GI bleeding is observed among inpatients with early use of proton pump inhibitors.

Health Care Expenditures Attributable to Primary Care Physician Overall and Burnout-Related Turnover: A Cross-sectional Analysis
Christine A. Sinsky, Tait D. Shanafelt, Liselotte N. Dyrbye, Adrienne H. Sabelty, Lindsey E. Carlasare, and Colin P. West
Turnover of primary care physicians leads to an additional $979 million in annual excess health care costs across the US population, with $260 million (27%) being attributable to burnout.

An Electronic Health Record—Compatible Model to Predict Personalized Treatment Effects From the Diabetes Prevention Program: A Cross-Evidence Synthesis Approach Using Clinical Trial and Real-World Data
David M. Kent, Jason Nelson, Anastassios Pittas, Francis Colangelo, Carolyn Koenig, David van Klaveren, Elizabeth Ciemins, and John Cuddeback
This electronic health record—compatible tool might support targeted diabetes prevention and more efficiently realize the benefits of Diabetes Prevention Program interventions.

Association of Physical Activity With Primary Cardiac Arrest Risk in the General Population: A Nationwide Cohort Study of the Dose-Response Relationship
Moo-Nyun Jin, Pil-Sung Yang, Hee Tae Yu, Tae-Hoon Kim, Hye Yong Lee, Jung-Hoon Sung, Young Sup Byun, and Boyoung Joung
The largest benefit was noted at levels 2 to 3 times the minimum recommended activity level, and the guideline-recommended minimum was associated with nearly the maximum benefit.

Artificial Intelligence Application in Graves Disease: Atrial Fibrillation, Heart Failure and Menstrual Changes
Jwan A. Naser, Zachi I. Attia, Sorin V. Pislaru, Marius N. Stan, Patricia A. Pellikka, Peter A. Noseworthy, Paul A. Friedman, and Grace Lin
Artificial intelligence—enabled ECG platforms performed well in identifying patients at highest risk of Graves disease—related atrial fibrillation and heart failure with reduced ejection fraction.

CSF Kappa Free Light Chains: Cutoff Validation for Diagnosing Multiple Sclerosis
Ruba S. Saadeh, Sandra C. Bryant, Andrew McKeon, Brian Weinshenker, David L. Murray, Sean J. Pittcock, and Maria Alice V. Willrich
A κ free light chain in cerebrospinal fluid value of 0.1 mg/dL can be used in place of oligoclonal band testing to support the diagnosis of multiple sclerosis.
